You're creating a development programme for your future and current leaders and want an engaging and credible psychometric element included

You want to invest in your people – for their personal development and to help your team work better together

Some of you have undertaken a Myers Briggs Assessment previously, some haven't – you want a common learning experience to bring the team together

Myers Briggs Type Indicator

MBTI Personal Impact Report

The Step 1 Personal Impact Report covers work style, communication style, team style, decision-making style, leadership style, conflict style, impacts of stress and approach to change.

121 Personal Feedback Session

A 90–120 minute one-to-one feedback session following the completion of the Personal Impact Report. Preference pairs explained, delegate self assesses, reported type is disclosed and best fit type agreed.

Understanding Type Workshop

A fully interactive and engaging workshop that explores each of the preference pairs, encourages delegates to self assess, allows for reported type to be shared confidentially and for best fit type to be determined. Opportunity to discuss how different preferences may display themselves. If delegates are willing to share, the team dynamic can also be plotted. Completion of the MBTI Personal Impact Report is a pre-requisite for attending this workshop.
